THE EXCHANGE CLUB OF NASHVILLE BULLETIN

Please join us Tuesday, April 29, 2008, at 12:00 Noon in the Suite Level Club at the Sommet Center.

Our Guest Speaker will be:

Charles L. Bradshaw

Topic:

“Rockets, Reactors and Computers Define the 20th Century”

About the Author:

Originally from Mascot, Tennessee, Charles L. Bradshaw received an Associate of Arts degree from Tennessee Wesleyan College before earning a Bachelor of Science degree from Tennessee Tech and a Master of Arts degree from the University of Tennessee. During World War II, he served in the U.S. Navy as a Lieutenant aboard APA-217 in the Pacific theatre of operations, leading initial assault waves into Okinawa and carrying the first occupation troops to mainland Japan. Bradshaw began his career in mathematics as an assistant professor at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute. He then served as chief of the computation unit of the aeroballistics laboratory of the Army's Guided Missile Development Division headed by Dr. Wernher von Braun. Later, he joined Oak Ridge National Laboratory as a mathematician in the mathematics panel. He returned to the space program in 1956 as a branch chief in the computation laboratory of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency. When the von Braun development team transferred to NASA to form the Marshall Space Flight Center in 1960, he became deputy director of the computations laboratory and served in that position for ten years. In 1971, he became director of the computer center at Vanderbilt University and remained in that position until retiring in 1988. Bradshaw became a member of the Association of Computing Machinery in 1954, received the Distinguished Service Award in 1988, and was named a Fellow in 1994. He and his wife, Loyce, reside in Lebanon, Tennessee.

About the Book:

The mid-twentieth century exploded with innovation and invention, introducing technology that would revolutionize the way people lived, worked, and played. This period saw more changes than any other in history, ushering in such world-altering developments as space exploration, nuclear power, and computers. Rockets, Reactors, and Computers Define the Twentieth Century gives a detailed account of these momentous changes from one man who was involved in the growth of all three. With wit and charm, mathematician Charles L. Bradshaw recalls his days as a rocket scientist and computer pioneer, working alongside some of the finest minds in science. Successfully mixing anecdotal and technical information, he recounts the commission to beat the Russians to the moon, harness nuclear power, and develop what we now understand to be the modern computer. Bradshaw provides a personal look at legendary events and figures such as Wernher von Braun and his team of expatriate German rocket scientists; the employment of the Redstone missile to launch the first U.S. satellite into space; and the birth and growth of the computer industry. With intimate insight, Bradshaw shares his compelling perspective on why the U.S. used the atomic bomb against Japan and defends the German scientists from inaccurate and inflammatory judgment of their WWII-era work.

The Board of Directors recommends the following proposed amendments to the Exchange Club of Nashville Bylaws:

Section 17 is hereby amended by replacing "eleven elected members" with "nine elected members."

Explanation: This section is amended to make it consistent with Section 22, which specifies that elected members of the Board, other than officers, are elected in classes of three: three elected for two-year terms and three elected for one-year term, with the current year's two year directors serving their second year to fill out the final three slots. We have five one-year directors this year, which number will be reduced to three by this amendment.

Section 22 is hereby amended to add the office of President-Elect as an office to be filled. The President-Elect shall move into the office of President after one year of service as President-Elect. The incumbent President shall serve as Chair of the Nominating Committee.

Explanation: President-Elect was inadvertently omitted from the list of officers to be nominated. The appointment of the Chair clarifies who is responsible for convening the Nominating Committee.

Section 22 is hereby amended to add the office of Assistant Secretary as an office for which the Nominating Committee shall nominate a candidate. The Assistant Secretary shall serve one year as Assistant Secretary followed by a second year as Secretary.

Explanation: The Assistant Secretary has been appointed by the President in the past. Since the Assistant Secretary has always moved to Secretary in the following year, it should be an elected office.

The above amendments will be voted on at the Tuesday, April 29, 2008 meeting.
